What is this study?

We are testing a website that helps Hindi speakers learn basic Telugu. You learn a small grammar rule, then you correct the mistakes of an AI classmate called Raju. We want to know whether correcting Raju helps people remember Telugu better than studying examples or practising with a normal tutor. We are testing the website, not you.

What will I do?

WHEN	WHAT	TIME
Day 1	This form, a few questions about your languages, a short test, a letters tour, then practice in three ways	about 45 min
Day 2	Practice	about 20 min
Day 3	Practice, a short test, and a feedback form	about 30 min
One week later	A short test and a 5-minute conversation about your experience	about 20 min

You type answers in Telugu or in Hindi letters. Tests have no right or wrong feedback. There is no audio or video recording.

What data is kept, and how?

- Your typed answers, test scores, time on the website and your feedback answers, stored under a code (for example P03), not your name.
- Only the project team sees the data. Your name and this form are kept separately from the data and are not shared.
- Results are reported only as group numbers or anonymous quotes, in a course paper and possibly a research publication.
- The website runs in the browser on our laptop. It does not ask for your name, email or phone number.

Risks and benefits

There are no known risks beyond the time it takes and the mild effort of a test. You may learn some Telugu. There is no payment_____ (team: write any token of thanks here).

Taking part is your choice

You can stop at any time without giving a reason, and ask us to delete your data until the results are written up (date: _____). Stopping has no effect on your marks, job or relationship with anyone on the team.
